

get more with classifieds!
call 466 5555
SUN

WIN A CANADIAN WEEKEND GETAWAY

SECTIONS

Home
News
Business
Sports
Entertainment
Automotive
Classifieds

Find a business

Type or Name

City Province

AB

FIND

Find!

Find A Person

Powered by
SUPERPAGES.ca
Your Phone Book Online

CLICK HERE FOR HOME DELIVERY

OPINION

Patrycja Romanowska
Teenage tattoo now
laser-burned flesh

Editorial

Racist hiring policy

Columnists' Page

Read all columns

Editorial Cartoon

Fred Curatolo

Letters

Read today's letters

NEWS

Mon, February 28, 2005

We're dazed and confused over feds' pot plan: poll

MARIA MCCLINTOCK, SUN OTTAWA BUREAU

OTTAWA -- Canadians are confused about what the federal government means when it talks about the decriminalization of pot, a new poll shows. The poll of 1,000 Canadians was done by the polling firm SES for Tory MP Randy White.

The survey was done from Jan. 28-Feb. 2 and is accurate to plus or minus 3 percentage points, 19 times out of 20.

White said he was surprised by the confusion. "The government is doing a very poor job. If they are moving into decriminalization of marijuana, then they should spend hundreds of dollars on television, on radio and in newspapers, explaining this to Canadians," White said.

The survey asked: "The Canadian government has recently moved to decriminalize the personal possession of marijuana. Do you believe that decriminalization (a) makes possession legal, (b) leaves possession illegal, (c) unsure, (d) no answer.

"One out of every two, or 49% of Canadians believe that decriminalizing marijuana actually makes possession legal," SES president Nik Nanos said the poll indicates.

Of those surveyed, 41% said they believed decriminalization leaves possession illegal. With decriminalization, marijuana possession would be illegal but not a criminal offence, much like, for example, speeding.

The second survey question asked what the minimum age to possess marijuana should be: 12 years and older; 16 and older; 18 and over; no age; or "unsure." Respondents chose 18 and more than 77.6% of the time.

PRINTER-FRIENDLY VERSION

E-MAIL TO A FRIEND

Previous story: Illegal smokes the new 'drug'

Next story: Peace efforts at risk: Sharon

RELATED ON CANOE

CNEWS MONEY

SLAM! Sports
JAM! Showbiz

CANOE

SUN Auto

SUN

AUTONET.ca

CLICK HERE AND SELL YOUR CAR TODAY